Overview of Credit Options

I. What is Dual Credit? What is Dual Enrollment?

Dual Credit courses are college courses offered to qualified secondary school students who enroll and potentially receive credit that will apply to both the high school and the college transcript. Students take the same course on a high school or college campus and receive two different types of credit to satisfy their high school and college requirements.

Dual Enrollment is when a student enrolls in a course at the college as a college student with or without receiving credit from the high school. Sometimes school districts will pay for these classes while others may not. These are students hoping to get a head start on college coursework outside of high school such as evenings and weekends.

Purpose

Triton College offers general education and career and technical education college-level courses to qualified high school students in order to provide access to affordable higher education to individuals residing in Triton Community College District 504. Dual credit courses serve as an important link in the transition from one educational experience to another. They help to create a more seamless transition from high school to college or into the workforce. Triton College dual credit is a partnership between the college and the district public and private high schools.

Benefits of Dual Credit

- Dual credit courses help prepare for transition to college by engaging students in college-level courses while still in high school. They can use their dual credit work to demonstrate their ability to complete college-level work when they apply for admission to colleges, universities, and vocational schools.
- Studies show that students who successfully complete dual credit courses are more likely to complete their future studies successfully.
- Students learn the rigors of college work early. They are able to adjust their study habits to college work before they begin their college experience.
- Students are offered expanded high school course offerings and provided seamless transition from high school to college.
- Students get a jump start on their education, which may shorten the time to complete an undergraduate degree or certificate.
- Students can complete entry-level general education, elective, or career and technical education college credit work at lower costs than they would experience at four-year public or private institutions of higher education.

Additional Considerations

While dual credit courses offer a multitude of benefits, participants should also be made aware of the impact a dual credit course may have on their high school and college transcripts. Even good students may earn a lower grade in their first college course as compared to a similar high school course. Additionally, each postsecondary institution individually determines whether to accept AP, IB, and/or dual credit courses. Students are encouraged to check the transfer policies at each of the colleges considered for post-secondary education before selecting their dual credit coursework.

II. What Types of Courses May Qualify for Dual Credit?

Career Courses

Applied Science programs provide occupational preparation in a range of careers. Courses offered in Applied Science programs are college-level and designed primarily for career preparation. Therefore, the career programs are designed to prepare students for direct or upgraded employment following graduation. Some career education courses transfer to colleges and universities in specific majors depending on college-to-college transfer agreements.

Transfer Courses

Courses in the arts and sciences curricula parallel those offered at universities and may be transferable to baccalaureate granting institutions. These include courses that meet general education requirements for all associate's degrees.

a. Dual Credit offered at the high school campus

Offerings vary by high school and are based on college approval of both course content and corresponding credentials and qualifications of assigned high school instructors. Approval of a high school course does not obligate the high school to offer that course in a particular academic year or semester. Please request the current master approved list by high school from the Triton College Office of Dual Credit.

b. Dual Credit offered at the college campus

The master list of courses approved by the Des Plaines Valley Region Education for Employment System (DVR) Board of Control (high school superintendents and college president) for dual credit on the Triton campus are located in Appendix A, but courses offered from this list may vary by semester depending on faculty schedules and enrollments in the academic courses. Requests to add additional courses to the master list are forwarded from the Triton College academic deans to the Director of the DVR for consideration by the Board of Control. The master list is reviewed and updated annually. Please see current course list in Appendix A. Also refer to www.dvr-efe.info to review current dual credit courses required by specific certificates or degree programs.

III. High School Campus Dual Credit

Applying for Triton Approval of Dual Credit Courses and High School Instructors

1. The appropriate district personnel completes and submits the Dual Credit Course Request Form (Appendix C) requesting dual credit course approval.
2. The proposed dual credit course request (Appendix C) will be reviewed and articulated between the high school's requestor and Triton department chair or coordinator to ensure it matches the curriculum and objectives of the college course. The Office of Dual Credit will notify the school of the course status once a decision has been reached.
3. High school instructors must meet established qualifications to teach and be approved to teach by the appropriate Triton College academic dean and chairperson/program coordinator. To establish qualifications to teach dual credit courses, high school instructors must submit their official college transcripts to the Office of Dual Credit and a resume, cover letter, teaching philosophy and dual credit instructor application to the Triton College Human Resources website at:

<https://jobopenings.triton.edu/applicants/jsp/shared//frameset/Frameset.jsp?time=1507651925312>

4. Upon receipt of all official documentation (resume, application, teaching philosophy and official college transcripts) the appropriate academic dean, chairperson/coordinator will meet with the high school instructor to verify credentials, and qualify and approve/disapprove the high school instructor to teach approved dual credit course(s).

Confirmation of high school district participation

Once the course and high school instructor are approved for dual credit each high school district should follow-up to confirm their internal requirements and approval to proceed with participation in dual credit.
